FINANCIERS OPPOSED TO POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Desperate efforts to effectually bowl over President Taft's postal savings banks program will be made in Chicago during the meeting of the American Bankers' association, the savings bank section of which has been arrayed against the pledge of the administration to create postal banks. The plausible plea will be reiterated that the fulfillment of the pledge to the people should be referred to the Monetary Commission. The real hope of the hostile banking interests is based on Senator Aldrich's well known attitude on this and other questions. What the Monetary Commission as now constituted would do to the postal bank bill is easy to foresee. President Taft has reiterated his determination to accept no sophistry and permit no further delay—the obstructive tactics of Speaker Cannon and others having been successful for 14 years in preventing the enactment of measures to create postal banks notwithstanding the favorable reports of senate and house committees and commissions.

Chairman George H. Currier of the Postal Savings Bank League's executive committee has said in "Everyday Life," in which Chicago magazine he has vigorously championed the measure: "The merits of the measure long since were conceded. The people of the United States are arrayed against a handful of Cannons and Aldriches and Weekses and bankers, those bankers who are too narrow to see that such a measure to promote savings and thrift is a measure that inevitably will increase commercial bank deposits and the nation's financial soundness and stability. In Austria the banks gained when the people were given such a system and the people gained tremendously. This also is true in Italy, in France, in Canada and in Great Britain."
